In your relationship with children and young people, you are required to ensure that the physical and emotional welfare of children and young people is safeguarded, and that your own behaviour is guided by this duty of care.

Please talk to the Principal if you have any questions regarding your duty of care.

Protective Practices: Professional boundaries

Education and care professions rely on the fostering of positive relationships between adults and children and young people, in ways that do not compromise children's and young people's welfare.

You can access a copy of the Protective Practices Guidelines from the school website at www.stcaths.catholic.edu.au, which will assist members of the community to maintain professional boundaries. The Guidelines give examples of boundary violations in communication, personal disclosure, physical contact, place, targeting individual children and young people, role, and possessions. As a Volunteer, you will find helpful guidance in managing professional boundaries in the Guidelines on:

- Working in country/local communities
- Using social networking sites
- Working one-to-one with children and young people
- Managing privacy expectations
- Conducting home visits.

Protective Practices Guidelines address appropriate physical contact in a range of situations, including

- assisting or encouraging a child or young person
- good practices with school age children and young people
- good practices with children up to school age.

Non-physical intervention is the recognised means of managing the behaviour of children and young people. Use of verbal instructions is always preferred to physical intervention.

The Guidelines address safe practices when it is legitimate to use physical restraint: that is only where a child's, young person's or adult's safety is threatened.

Education and care staff support children and young people with disabilities or additional needs through individual plans, which take various forms. These plans document the strategies that are to be used in supporting the child or young person, and will assist you to ensure your duty of care to the child or young person.

Conduct representing a breach of legislation includes:

- Child abuse and neglect
- Illegal behaviours
- Sexual harassment

The Protective Practices Guidelines are summarised in the brochure About Protective Practices provided with this pack.

What is Child Abuse?

Your training will include information on the four types of child abuse:

- (1) Physical abuse (2) Sexual abuse (3) Emotional abuse (4) Neglect.

Why report Child Abuse?

From time to time, volunteers working with children will experience children disclosing sensitive information. Children have limited power to protect themselves from abuse and will only be protected from abuse and neglect if responsible adults take action on their behalf. Reporting child abuse is the first step in stopping the abuse and protecting children from further harm.

When to report Child Abuse?

You are required by law to report child abuse and neglect when you form a suspicion on reasonable grounds:

- A child or young person tells you that s/he has been abused;
- Your own observation of the behaviour of a particular child or young person and/or injuries, or your knowledge of the child generally leads you to suspect that abuse is occurring;
- A child or young person tells you s/he knows someone who has been abused (the child may be referring to her/himself);
- Someone tells you of the abuse who is in a position to provide reliable information (perhaps a relative, friend, neighbour or sibling of the child/young person).

What does the law say?

Volunteers are Mandated Notifiers and obliged by law to notify Department of Child Protection if they suspect on reasonable grounds that a child or young person has been or is being abused or neglected and they formed their suspicion in the course of their work (whether paid or voluntary) or in carrying out official duties. Volunteers must notify Department of Child Protection of their suspicion as soon as practicable after they form the suspicion.

What do you do if you have suspicions or concerns?

You are not expected to act alone. Always seek guidance and work in partnership with the Principal or Deputy Principal. Your role as a volunteer means you are supported by professionals at the site in meeting your responsibilities as a mandated notifier.

Child Abuse must be reported to Department for Child Protection either online: www.reportchildabuse.families.sa.gov.au
